

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background of the Apprenticeship

The company does not accept someone who only has the ability in theory, but also requires someone who is mentally ready to work in the company with all the skills they have. A person who will enter the world of work must prepare himself and not apply only to competition from higher disciplines. We also have extensive experience, knowledge and insight. What is most needed is to have skills and experience . Higher education has a lot of knowledge in certain fields. Therefore, the campus makes a policy for students to carry out practical work activities in companies, apart from the obligation to get grades, this is aimed at improving their skills, knowledge and abilities.

Practical work also serves as an introduction for students to the world of work. More or less students can quickly adapt to the work environment. This is an added value because the performance becomes faster. When doing practical work activities will certainly add to the list of acquaintances. With the increase in this connection, it will also increase the information. Both information about job vacancies and knowledge of the world of work. Practical work can also be a medium to get to know yourself to find out your strengths and weaknesses.

The International Business Administration Study Program is one of the study programs at State Polytechnic of Bengkalis which requires students to do on the apprenticeship for 4 months. This is intended so that students can understand, learn how the real business world is so that they are ready to compete directly.
