

REFERENCES

- Ali, M., Rahman, H., & Khan, S. (2023). Halal food consumption among international students: A study on religious adherence and health concerns. Journal of Consumer Studies, 45(2), 89-105.
- Ali, A., & Suleiman, A. (2022). Consumer preferences for halal products: Influences of trust in halal certification, product quality, and product availability. Journal of Islamic Marketing, 13(2), 157-172.
- Alimuddin, A., & Setiawan, A. (2022). Cultural and social influences on halal food preferences among international students in Germany. International Journal of Food and Cultural Studies, 10(1), 56-70.
- DinarStandard. (2023). Halal products and their increasing demand among non-Muslim consumers due to perceived hygiene and quality. Retrieved from DinarStandard website.
- Hamdan, H., Mustafa, Y., & Ali, S. (2023). The impact of marketing and branding on consumer preferences for halal food. International Journal of Marketing and Business Studies, 18(4), 92-110.
- Kim, J., & Park, S. (2022). Food choices and cultural adaptation among international students. Journal of Cross-Cultural Studies, 13(2), 78-90.
- Pew Research Center. (2023). Global Muslim population projections. Retrieved from Pew Research Center website.
- Rahman, H., Yusof, M., & Abdullah, S. (2022). Consumer behavior towards halal food: Awareness, certification, and cultural factors. Journal of Consumer Behavior Studies, 12(3), 112-126.
- Yusof, M., Ali, N., & Rahman, H. (2022). Social network influence on food choices: A study on halal food preferences among university students. Journal of Social Influence, 8(1), 44-61.
- Rahman, A., Abdullah, R., & Saad, M. (2022). Knowledge and awareness of halal principles and its impact on consumer behavior. Journal of Halal Food Research, 7(3), 23-38.

- Rahman, F., & Khan, M. (2023). Challenges faced by international students in accessing halal products in non-Muslim countries. International Journal of Islamic Economics and Finance Studies, 7(1), 45-60.
- Statistisches Bundesamt. (2023). Muslim population statistics in Germany. Retrieved from Statistisches Bundesamt website.
- Sugiyono. (2022). Metode Penelitian Kuantitatif, Kualitatif, dan R&D. Alfabeta.
- Yusof, R., Ahmad, N., & Hussein, A. (2022). Peer influence and social networks in shaping food preferences among international students. Journal of Social Dynamics and Cultural Studies, 14(3), 120-135.